2. User Roles

HOMINODE may provide different access levels for Residents, Administrators, Super Administrators, Security Personnel, and other authorized community users. Users may access only the information and functionality permitted for their assigned role and community. Attempting to bypass access restrictions is prohibited.

3. Registration and Account Information

Users must provide accurate and current information when registering. Users are responsible for ensuring that their mobile number belongs to them or they are authorized to use it, information provided is accurate, OTPs and account access are kept secure, and unauthorized persons do not use their account. Marantrix may suspend or restrict access where an account appears fraudulent, unauthorized, compromised, or used in violation of these Terms.

4. Community Approval

Registration does not necessarily provide automatic access to a housing society. A resident may be required to belong to an approved community, complete OTP verification, provide requested information, submit identity documentation where applicable, and receive approval from an authorized community administrator. Housing society administrators are responsible for deciding whether a person should be approved as a member of their community.

5. Resident and Property Information

Authorized administrators may manage information about buildings, floors, apartments, residents, ownership or tenancy, occupancy, family members, vehicles, and move-in or move-out records. Users must not intentionally provide false residence, ownership, tenancy, or identity information.

6. Visitor and Security Services

HOMINODE assists communities with visitor entry and security management. Residents and administrators are responsible for ensuring that visitor details they provide are accurate and lawful. Security personnel must use visitor and security information solely for legitimate community security purposes. HOMINODE does not replace professional security services, emergency services, police, fire services, or other public authorities.

7. Identity Verification

A housing society may require residents to provide identity documents. Marantrix provides the technical platform for submitting and reviewing such documents. The housing society or its authorized administrator is responsible for determining whether submitted documentation satisfies its own membership or verification requirements. Marantrix does not guarantee the authenticity of documents submitted by users.

8. Complaints and Service Requests

HOMINODE may allow residents to submit complaints and service requests. HOMINODE facilitates communication and tracking but does not guarantee that a complaint will be resolved, a particular resolution time, or the quality of work performed by a housing society, employee, contractor, or third-party service provider. Responsibility for handling community complaints remains with the relevant management organization or service provider.

9. Bills, Maintenance Charges and Payments

HOMINODE may display bills, maintenance charges, payment status, or related records provided by the community. The relevant housing society or organization is responsible for determining amounts payable, maintaining correct financial records, resolving payment disputes, and issuing legally required receipts or accounting documentation. Unless specifically stated otherwise, Marantrix is not the creditor, recipient, or beneficiary of housing society maintenance payments.

10. Notices and Communications

Authorized administrators may publish notices, announcements, emergency communications, or other community information. Marantrix does not independently verify every communication submitted by community administrators. Administrators are responsible for ensuring that content they publish is accurate, lawful, and appropriate.

11. Push Notifications

HOMINODE may send push notifications relating to authorized community activities. Push notifications are provided as a convenience and may occasionally be delayed or unavailable because of internet connectivity, device settings, operating-system restrictions, third-party notification services, or service interruptions. Important or emergency matters should not rely solely on push notifications.

12. Acceptable Use

Users must use HOMINODE only for lawful, authorized community purposes.

- Do not access another user account without authorization
- Do not attempt to access another community's information
- Do not submit false information or impersonate another person
- Do not misuse visitor, resident, or security information

- Do not scrape, copy, or systematically extract protected community data

13. Community Administrator Responsibilities

Administrators must access information only for legitimate community purposes, maintain accurate community and resident information, grant access only to authorized personnel, protect resident information from misuse, comply with applicable privacy and data-protection obligations, and promptly revoke access when staff or administrators are no longer authorized.

14. Security Personnel Responsibilities

Security users must access information only for legitimate gate and community-security operations. Security personnel must not disclose visitor or resident information without authorization, use security records for unrelated purposes, share account credentials, or access another community without authorization.

15. Third-Party Services

HOMINODE may rely on third-party services for authentication, cloud infrastructure, notifications, mapping, file storage, image hosting, telecommunications, and other supporting services. Marantrix is not responsible for interruptions or failures caused solely by third-party services outside its reasonable control.

16. Intellectual Property

HOMINODE, including its software, designs, branding, graphics, workflows, documentation, and related intellectual property, is owned by Marantrix or its licensors unless otherwise stated. Users receive a limited, revocable, non-exclusive right to use HOMINODE for its intended purpose. Users may not copy, reproduce, modify, distribute, sell, sublicense, reverse engineer, or commercially exploit HOMINODE without written permission from Marantrix.

17. User-Submitted Content

Users retain responsibility for information and content they submit. By submitting information necessary for community management, the user authorizes HOMINODE and the relevant housing society to process that information for legitimate community operations subject to applicable law and the Privacy Policy. Users must have appropriate authority before submitting information relating to another person.

18. Account Suspension and Termination

Access may be suspended, deactivated, or terminated where a resident moves out, a community administrator withdraws access, account information is fraudulent, these Terms are violated, security concerns arise, or continued access would violate applicable law. Historical records may be retained where legitimately required.

19. Service Availability

Marantrix aims to provide reliable access to HOMINODE but does not guarantee continuous or uninterrupted availability. Temporary interruptions may occur because of maintenance, software updates, internet outages, cloud-provider outages, security incidents, force majeure events, or circumstances beyond reasonable control.

20. Disclaimer

HOMINODE is a technology platform for community management. Marantrix is not a housing society, property owner or property manager unless separately contracted, security agency, emergency-response service, legal adviser, accounting firm, or financial institution. 21. Limitation of Liability

To the extent permitted by applicable law, Marantrix will not be liable for indirect, incidental, special, consequential, or punitive losses arising from incorrect information entered by users, decisions made by housing society administrators, unauthorized use resulting from compromised credentials, failures of third-party services, delayed notifications, community disputes, or actions of visitors, residents, staff, vendors, contractors, or security personnel. Nothing in these Terms excludes liability that cannot lawfully be excluded.

22. Indemnity

To the extent permitted by applicable law, users and organizations using HOMINODE agree to be responsible for losses, claims, or liabilities arising from their unlawful use of HOMINODE, violation of these Terms, or unauthorized handling of information.

23. Privacy

Use of HOMINODE is also governed by the HOMINODE Privacy Policy. The Privacy Policy forms part of these Terms.

24. Changes to the Terms

Marantrix may update these Terms when necessary because of product changes, security requirements, legal requirements, or operational changes. Where appropriate, users may be required to accept a new Terms version before continuing to use HOMINODE.
